

2014 Light Owl Trial

Saturday 12th April, 2014

This year we (Paul & myself) have decided to put on an event which mimics the Night Owl.

The differences being that it will be 1 Division, about 280 Kms, mainly all daylight & close to Newcastle. Those are the only differences, there will still be three levels of navigation. There will be a mix of good gravel & tar roads.

I will be using a different method of scoring. This will be by a Positive Method. For every Control that you visit, whether it be a Main or Passage you will accumulate (60) points But if you get the Controls in the wrong order or Direction you will only get 15 points. You will not score points for any Missed Controls. There are a couple of Penalties where points will be deducted, basically the more points you attain the higher your finishing order.

I don't believe in hiding Passage Boards so all Boards will be in a clear area, normally on a white post so that it can be seen as you approach. There will be a couple of Boards which will, if you look in the right place, will also be easily seen from within the vehicle.

The event will start from Rathmines Park at 13:00 hours, with Scrutineering from 11:30, and finish at Rod & Karen Piggott's at Eraring with first car about 17:30, followed by a BBQ.
